If you are looking for "freaks," The Ashland News is "it."

JUDGING from its cartoons, The Louisville Commercial is jealous because it didn't get the entire Republican campaign fund.

EVERY big city in the Union reports a hotel jam.—Telegram.

Pshaw! That's nothing. Why, every house in Maysville has a door jamb.

NOBODY has been found who can say a word against the legal qualifications and eminent fitness of ANDREW COCHRAN for the new Federal Judgeship.

THE appointment to the Federal Judgeship of such a man as ANDREW COCHRAN of this city will add dignity to the Bench and strength to the Republican party in Kentucky.

SOME of the pro-Boer papers have been delighted to print accounts of mistreatment of the burghers by their British antagonists; but the most horrible relation that has yet reached refined ears is the charge that the Boer General DeWet "treats his men cruelly, and frequently sjamboks them!" Certainly, nothing that the British might do can equal this Boer atrocity—if the punishment fits the name.

Chenoweth's Cough Syrup is recommended for coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough, etc.

THEY BEAT THE BAND.

Little Chip, the famous eccentric comedian, thought by many to be unequalled in his class, is being featured by Dunne & Ryley in their big production of Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag." This merry little performer has provided himself with new songs and an entire new and unique dancing specialty with grotesque features, which are said to be laugh-provoking to a hilarious degree. "A Milk White Flag" will be at Washington Opera-house tonight. A special feature of this engagement will be the appearance of Mary Marble as the Orphan and John W. Dunne as the Colonel.

A Convincing Answer.
"I hobbled into Mr. Blackman's Drugstore one evening," says Wesley Nelson of Hamilton, Ga., "and he asked me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism with which I had suffered for a long time. I told him I had no faith in any medicine as they all failed. He said: 'Well, if Chamberlain's Pain Balm does not help you, you need not pay for it.' I took a bottle of it home and used it according to the directions and in one week I was cured, and have not since been troubled with rheumatism." Said by J. Jas. Wood & Son, Druggists.

EDWARD AND IRELAND.

Ill-Advised Language From Hotheads May Injure Erin's Cause.

Cincinnati Times Star.

The recent attacks by some of the Irish leaders upon Queen Victoria have been unusually ill-advised, when it is remembered that Edward VII. is her son. There have been substantial reasons for believing that Edward is at heart a home ruler. In 1886, when Mr. Gladstone required the Irish vote to secure a settlement for the Prince's children, Mr. Parnell refused to give it until he received assurances as to His Highness' position on home rule. He was given assurances that the Prince did not share in regard to home rule in Ireland the excited apprehensions of the Queen. These Parnell deemed sufficient to cast the Irish vote for the bill. Regarding the Prince's views on this topic, it was frequently stated by Lord Russell, who was one of his intimates, that he was a convinced home ruler.

The visits of the Prince to Ireland have not always been such as to reassure him, and a renewal of the attacks on his mother are not of the kind to pacify him. They have been marked by riots and disorder. These are not the ways to make a friend of a man who might theoretically be in favor of home rule. Of course, under the English Governmental system, Edward's private political views are without much effect. He is constitutionally bound to keep them to himself. The most he can do is to hint at them; but a hint from the throne is valuable.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Gardner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the drugstore of Mr. Houlahan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I get a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by J. Jas. Wood & Son, Druggists.

Corporal Charles Clouser's Brother Wants an Investigation as to the Manner of His Death.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 13.—W. B. Clouser, of 613 Third street, Cincinnati, has written to Sergt. Skinner, of the Louisville United States army recruiting office and to Coroner McCullough, citing what he thinks are suspicious circumstances in connection with the death of his brother, Corp. Chas. His throat, says the letter, looked as if it had been cut and bruised. The verdict of the Louisville coroner's inquest was that Clouser died of morphine poisoning and he was supposed to have committed suicide. Corp. Clouser was a Philippine veteran and had a good record. He had been in the army 17 years.

WORK OF DEPARTMENT COMMENDED.

In the House the Army Appropriation Bill Was Passed and the Sundry Civil Bill Taken Up.

This is the Last But One of the Big Money Measures—Mr. Sulzer's Letter Expunged From the Record.

Washington, Feb. 13.—During the entire session of the senate Tuesday the agricultural appropriation bill was under consideration. After six hours of consideration the bill was little more than half completed. The debate upon the measure dealt almost entirely with administrative details of the department of agriculture, many commendations of the work of the department being made by senators on both sides of the chamber.

House Proceedings.

The house Tuesday passed the army appropriation bill and entered upon consideration of the sundry civil bill, the last but one of the big money bills. The debate on the army bill was confined largely to a discussion of the question of passing bills to remove the charge of desertion against soldiers, and was made notable by a statement of Mr. McClellan (N. Y.) comparing the cost of the soldier in European armies with the cost to the United States. According to his figures, including the cost of pensions, etc., each United States soldier involved an expense of $2,828, while a German soldier costs $227 and a French soldier $232.

Previous to consideration of the appropriation bills a letter reflecting upon Mr. Perry S. Heath, which Mr. Sulzer introduced into the proceedings Monday, was expunged from the record. During the debate upon the motion to expunge, Mr. Sulzer renewed his attack upon Mr. Heath, reiterating his statement of Monday that he was willing to father the statements in the letter, and declaring that if action was brought against him he would not plead his constitutional immunity.

The robbers were discovered as they left the house, but made their escape without difficulty.

MRS. NATION IN CHICAGO.

She Visits a Saloon, Has a Chat With the Proprietor and Meets Her Grandson.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived in this city Tuesday afternoon and lectured in the evening.

Shortly after midnight, attended by a few friends, Mrs. Nation went on a tour of the levee district. Her first call was made at a saloon at 230 State street, where the proprietor had flung across his doorway a banner bearing the inscription "Welcome to Mrs. Nation."

Underneath the lettering was drawn a hatchet dripping with blood. Mrs. Nation entered the place and was politely greeted by the owner, who seemed to be an old acquaintance of hers. The two then sat down for a social chat and were apparently glad to see each other. A large crowd followed the woman into the place and another throng, numbering perhaps 100 people, stood outside apparently waiting for the trouble to begin. Everything was peaceful, however, and Mrs. Nation made no effort to break anything. She said she was going to get the saloonkeepers to come out to her lecture.

The saloon is operated by John Juertiek. As Mrs. Nation entered the place a young man embraced her and cried out, "How are you, grandma?" The young man is manager for Juertiek and he was recognized by Mrs. Nation as her husband's (David Nation) grandson.

They also visited the two drug stores, giving the proprietors warning that if they did not be more careful about giving liquor as prescriptions on slight pretenses that they would be dealt with in the Carrie Nation manner. A noted feature of the proceedings was that the wife of one of the druggists was one of the most enthusiastic crusaders. The spokesman of the crowd was a woman, a teacher in the public school.
